

Want to earn more by providing expanded ancillary services in your office?

Fax back this form to learn how CardioRad can help.

Many physicians outsource their patients' imaging and EMG/nerve conduction to specialists, imaging centers and to the hospital – resulting in a significant loss of revenue and patients. It is realistic for a practice to generate an extra $20-100k a year with expanded ancillary services. With CardioRad you can bill for in-office procedures and keep the profit.

CardioRad provides dedicated imaging specialists who read studies promptly, who are readily available for consults and who partner with local, registered/certified technologists to provide services for your patients in your office. On-site ancillary services include carotid IMT, echocardiography, EMG/nerve conduction, holter monitor, nuclear, stress-echo, ultrasound and vascular imaging. We also assist with pre-authorizations, coding and reimbursement.

Simply fill out this form to receive a complimentary consult and demonstration of CardioRad's services and revenue projections customized for your practice.
